8-5-96

While sitting on the side of Clement Circle pool on 8-4-96. I saw the lifeguard stand up on her perch and stare toward the deep end of the pool for a short time. She then asked my son who was hanging on the side if there was someone under the water. He replied "YES" and she asked if he was alright. He submerged a short distance and returned telling her "the person isn't moving".

The lifeguard then used a megaphone to order everybody out of the pool. She also called to the other lifeguards at the shallow end saying "There's someone down in the deep end".

She then climbed down from her perch, removed her shirt and dove in to retrieve him. When she resurfaced with the boy at the side of the pool there was nobody strong enough to pull him from the water. (MANY PEOPLE JUST STOOD WATCHING)

Myself and Dale Phillips then ran over to help her get him out of the water, lay him on his back. She insisted that not touch him.
